A HIDEOUS CRIME.

A Woman and Three Children Murdered and Their Bodies Burned.

ALEXANDRIA, VA., Nov. 11.—The neighbors of Mrs. James Mince, a widow living near Calvary, Fairfax county, discovered the body of a woman and three children in a burning building.

The Paris manufacturing company had a narrow escape from a fire yesterday catching in the ventilating shaft of the engine room. It was put out before it caught in the machine building.

Marshall Dickinson was yesterday offered the largest price ever put on a horse in Texas—$4,000—but then it was made by the president of the Chickasaw mining company and was to be paid in mining company stock.

Three children had been murdered and the body of their mother was found in a burning building.

A CLANKING CHAIN.

The Instrument of a Confession of a Murderer.

THE LORD HAVE MERCY ON YOU

A Ghostly Visitor, the Disembodied Spirit of Juan Argo, the Fugitive, "Butchy" Baker to Plead to Life Imprisonment—A Convict's Curse.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Nov. 11.—Convict "Butchy" Baker, under a life sentence, was today taken from the San Rafael jail, where he had been confined for the past several years. The remainder of his days on earth will be spent in a cell in the San Rafael jail, where he was taken from the San Rafael jail, where he had been confined for the past several years. The remainder of his days on earth will be spent in a cell in the San Rafael jail, where he was taken from the San Rafael jail, where he had been confined for the past several years.

But for a certain strange reason, Convict Baker did not wait in the San Rafael jail, where he was taken from the San Rafael jail, where he had been confined for the past several years. The remainder of his days on earth will be spent in a cell in the San Rafael jail, where he was taken from the San Rafael jail, where he had been confined for the past several years.

"I'll never forget you!" cried the "lifer," shaking his manacled hands at his cell, as he was escorted to the prison. "My nights in that cell have been a hell on earth. I would not stay there a month longer if I could be freed of my crime by doing so."

The man had good cause for his frantic determination to be removed from San Rafael jail at any cost. He has had a nocturnal cell-mate during his confinement there, who would have been the most terrible of all the inmates of the prison. As the midnight visitor of a man whose soul was already shaken with the blood-guiltiness of murder, Baker's cell-mate was more than the human mind could endure and remain sane. Folsom prison for life, a lunatic ward for life, were the only alternatives left Convict Baker, and he chose the latter.

Escape from the uneasy ghost of suicide Juan Argo was what the self-confessed murderer gained by his confession of murder, and he welcomed that escape as the greatest blessing that ever came to him, even at such a price as imprisonment for life.

Haggard, wasted and with a face "grayed" as only a great horror can blanch the healthy color from a strong man's skin, Baker left the San Rafael jail. He was behind him a story that defies parallel in the record of the prison. The story of the spirit of a fellow-convict haunting the sleepless pillow of a convict-murderer.

One night, some months ago, in what is known as the "tank cell" in the San Rafael jail, there was a sudden termination to a criminal career. The termination in question was the great and final end of a man, and it followed closely upon the heels of an attempted escape. Juan Argo, a desperado, serving a sentence for burglary, saved through the great and final end of a man, and it followed closely upon the heels of an attempted escape. AUSTIN, TEX., Nov. 11.—Abraham Grant, a colored Methodist bishop of San Antonio, has written to the commission asking whether or not negroes are entitled to sleeping-car privileges on railroad trains.

The bishop travels a good deal, and feels that he should be admitted to the sleeper. The question is one for the courts and not the commission to decide.

The site chosen for the T. P. A. sanitarium on the eastern border of the city, the place being known as the Rogers home, is something of a surprise to the people here, who supposed that the place chosen would be in the neighborhood of the dam west of the city.

Dividend Passed.

Payment of the Semi-Annual Dividend of the United States Express Company Postponed.

Special to the Gazette.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The stockholders of the United States express company who have been looking for the usual advertised notice of the payment of the semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent due on the 15th inst. are disappointed at its non-appearance.

The reason therefor, it was learned to-day by a reporter for THE GAZETTE, is that the company decided to pass its dividend this time, or as it expresses it, it has postponed the payment of the usual dividend. Thomas C. Platt, president of the United States express company, after stating to-day that the company had postponed the payment of the dividend, said in reply to questions by the reporter that he could not tell when the dividend would be paid. It would depend on circumstances. The dividend had, however, been passed for the present.

OUR COTTON MILLS.

In Twelve Months They Will Equal the Largest in Texas.

A meeting of the directors was held at Dallas yesterday, when Mr. Taylor was authorized to contract and pay rent monthly for two years on a new cotton mill, to any one who will build it, for the operatives, as follows: For the three-room cottages, $7 per month, and for the six-room cottages, $15 per month. Lots are yet cheap in this addition. It is a chance to make 20 per cent per annum on the investment, and not be troubled with tenants. President Howard said the close of the meeting, to a Fort Worth man who dropped in at that time, that in one year the Manchester cotton mill of Fort Worth would be equal in size, capacity and number of employees to the Dallas mills.

The company is taking leases and paying their board, while they are learning. Thirty more women or grown girls can find steady employment.
